Strategic Go-to-Market Approach

Our sales strategy focuses on targeted regional launches. We will leverage diverse channels for rapid market penetration and brand building.

1 Focus on First City or Region (State-by-State Conquest)

- Start with 1–2 Tier-2 cities (like Delhi NCR, Kolkata) where distribution costs are lower & consumer response is faster.
- Build strong presence in GT stores, schools, gyms, local cafés, corporate offices, and quick-commerce partners.
- Leverage retailer trust—Kirana store owners influence brand trials among families.

Goal: Get 300+ active stores in 40 days in one focused region.

2 Product Format Strategy (Based on Indian Habits)

- ₹20–₹60 “single-serve” SKUs: Target impulse buy at Kirana, college canteens, QSRs, target parents via D2C, weekend markets, or modern trade.

Reasoning: Indian buyers love smaller trial packs before repeat purchase. Health claims + price = win.

3 Sales & Distribution Strategy

Phase 1 – GT + B2B + Online D2C

- GT: Appoint 2–3 area sales managers or freelancers per city (target 5 stores/day/person)
- B2B: Corporate Gifting, Hotel Breakfast Pack, etc
- D2C Website: Focus on “New Arrival Testers” + combo boxes
- Quick Commerce: Pitch to Zepto, Blinkit, Instamart, etc

Phase 2 – Modern Trade + Institutional Sales

- Target Spencers, EasyDay, Metro, D-Mart, Reliance Smart Point, etc.
- Tie-up with schools, offices, yoga chains as healthier snack option.

4 Data-Driven Execution

- Every POS & sampling location must give feedback form or QR for repeat purchase
- Track top-performing SKUs, cities, and target personas
- Monthly GTM review: What’s converting, where are we leaking?

Mass-Scale Scalability + Affordability

Frutacrunch is not just urban — it's meant for your local kirana, college hostel, and the everyday Indian snack time.

- MRP range of ₹40–₹60 → Affordable for everyone.
- Works across general trade, kiranas, and quick commerce.
- Not a niche D2C brand — it's a potential everyday mass-market brand.

Why Now Is The Right Time ?

Consumers are ditching fried, preservative-filled snacks. We're riding the new wave of guilt-free, tasty, and honest snacking.

- Indian snacking market to reach ₹1.6 lakh crore+ by 2026.
- Rise of health-conscious Gen Z & millennials.
- Post-pandemic hygiene & immunity focus.
- Growing preference for local, clean-label, made-in-India products.

Funding Requirement – ₹60 Lakh for 17%

Manufacturing Setup	₹12,00,000	20%	Small in-house dehydration or cloud facility cost
Marketing, Branding, Sampling	₹14,00,000	23.33%	Launch + retention campaigns, influencer push, city-wise testing

- Reach 1400 + B2B counters + quick commerce + website D2C
- Serve 30,000+ units per month within 9–12 months

Why 2.93 Cr. Pre – money valuation is justified !

- Validated Product: Over 300+ customers have tested our SKUs (apple, banana, pear, sweet potato) with excellent repeat response.
- Differentiated Process: Unlike freeze-dried chips that taste artificial, our air-dried process retains natural taste, without added sugar/oil — a major USP.
- Strong Go-To-Market Strategy: Starting with city-wise conquest + B2B + quick commerce, which avoids huge upfront retail costs.
- Good-Margin Product Line: We operate at 55–65% gross margins, even with competitive pricing (₹20–₹60 range).
- Lean Cost Structure: No expensive tech burn or heavy fixed salaries. We're keeping operations lightweight and impact-focused.
- Experienced Core Team: Founders bring sales + finance + market execution experience, already built supply chain, sourcing, and packaging.

Strong Margin & Unit Economics Table

SKU	MRP (₹)	Net Weight (gm)	Raw Material Used (gm)	Raw Material Cost (₹)	Packaging + Processing (₹)	Total Cost (₹)	Net Revenue After GST & Distribution (₹)	Gross Margin (₹)	Gross Margin (%)
Apple Chips	₹60	28 gm	62.5 gm	₹11.20	₹5.00	₹16.20	₹40.18	₹23.98	59.68%
Banana Chips	₹30	35 gm	71.94 gm	₹2.33	₹5.00	₹7.33	₹20.09	₹12.76	63.50%
Sweet Potato Chips	₹40	30 gm	60 gm	₹4.48	₹5.00	₹9.48	₹26.79	₹17.31	64.61%
Pear Chips	₹60	28 gm	62.5 gm	₹10.96	₹5.00	₹15.96	₹40.18	₹24.22	60.29%

How the Economics Work :

- Net Revenue assumes 12% GST and 25% distributor + trade margin already deducted from MRP.
- Packaging + Processing includes labor, pouch cost, electricity, seasoning, and air drying costs.
- Gross Margin = Net Revenue – Total Cost.
- All SKUs offer >59% margin, meaning we have healthy room to scale without price compromise.

Why This Founding Team is the Right One

Ayush Jaiswal (Founder – Sales & Operations)

Ayush brings over 3 years of hands-on experience in FMCG sales, especially in the B2B space — covering equipment, distribution, and product-led businesses. He has worked at the grassroots level, directly with distributors, Kirana stores, and retailers, giving him a real-world understanding of how products move in Indian markets. More importantly, Ayush is not just someone with a theoretical vision — he has already built and tested the Frutacrunch product line, interacted with over 300+ real customers, and knows what packaging, pricing, and taste work in different micro-markets. His execution-first mindset, sales acumen, and market sense make him ideal to drive this state-by-state conquest strategy.

Reema Jangra (Finance & Strategy)

Reema brings deep strength in financial management, accounting, and strategic planning. She has been instrumental in designing Frutacrunch’s cost structure, pricing model, and funding roadmap. Her skill in handling investor communications, creating business plans, and aligning operational planning with financial outcomes makes her a critical backbone of the business. She ensures that every rupee spent is ROI-driven, and the unit economics stay healthy from Day 1 — which is especially important for a capital-efficient startup like ours.

Exit Options for Investors

At Frutacrunch, we are fully committed to building a scalable and investor-friendly business. While our short-term focus is on unit economics, distribution, and brand loyalty, we also maintain a long-term vision with clear exit pathways for investors.

1. Strategic Acquisition by Larger FMCG Companies (Years 4–6)

The most probable exit route is a strategic acquisition by a large Indian or global FMCG company seeking:

- Expansion into the health-conscious snacking category
- D2C capabilities and new-age branding
- Fast-growing regional players with established loyalty and distribution depth
- Brands like ITC, Haldiram's, Marico, Tata Consumer, Emami, and even global giants like PepsiCo and Kellogg's are actively acquiring emerging healthy snack brands to stay relevant in changing consumer preferences.
- Frutacrunch's state-by-state conquest model, clean-label air-dried SKUs, and grassroots traction make it a prime acquisition target in 4–5 years.

2. Secondary Sale During Series A/B Round (Years 2–4)

Once we achieve:

- ₹5–7 Cr+ ARR (Annual Revenue Run Rate)
- PAN India presence through GT, MT, Q-commerce, and D2C
- Strong monthly retention & gross margin profile

We plan to raise a larger institutional Series A/B round, at which point early-stage investors may:

- Exit partially or fully through secondary share sale
- Realize 3x–5x returns depending on dilution and round size

We'll ensure our cap table is built to protect early backers, with preferential rights if necessary.
